A Russian cruiser went on the rocks, slid off and sunk. She may have been the Boyarin, previously reported as destroyed.

Russia complains to the powers that Japan violates the laws of nations in her methods of warfare.

A NIGHT ALARM

Worse than the alarm of fire at night is the brassy cough of croup, which sounds like the children's death knell and it means death unless something is done quickly. Foley's Honey and Tar never fails to give instant relief and quickly cures the worst forms of croup. Mrs. P. L. Cordier of Mannington, Ky., writes: "My three-year-old girl had a severe case of croup; the doctor said she could not live. I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar; the first dose gave quick relief and it saved her life." Refuse substitutes. Sold by the Postoffice Drugstore.

END OF BITTER FIGHT

"Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abscess on my right lung," writes F. J. Hughes of Dunport, Ga., "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. ### A MOTHER'S RECOMMENDATION

I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a number of years and have no hesitancy in saying that it is the best remedy for coughs, colds and croup I have ever used in my family. I have no words to express my confidence in this remedy.—Mrs. J. A. Moore, North Star, Mich. For sale by all druggists.

The fan attachment on the New Home machine is certainly grand. It keeps the flies and gnats off and the operator cool while sewing. Ocala Furniture Company.

MR. FORT ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY

To the Voters of Marion County: I have been solicited by friends to be a candidate for re-election to the office of county commissioner from the fourth district, and in view of the fact that I would like to have the place another term, I have decided to make the race. I am not ungrateful of past favors at the hands of my friends, for which I am very grateful. It is not definitely known yet whether the commissioners will be nominated from the districts or the county, and it makes no difference to me. I feel too modest to refer to my record as commissioner, further than to say that all who have kept posted know of my stewardship, whether commendable or not. I do not say that I have made no mistakes in office, neither do I say I will not make any if re-elected. I do not say that I have pleased everybody, in fact, I have not tried for this one of the impossibilities, however, I have tried to be reasonable and fair to all alike. It would be asking too much space to state my position on the leading issues that have and are likely to come up. You know my record on free ferries, road machinery, obstructing the public highways by gates, etc. I have no reason to change my views on any of these issues.

Last, but not least, I may have some opponents. I feel that it is my bounden duty, as tax payers, to look carefully, for indeed no office in the county is, or should be, of more importance to the tax payers than this. The healthy or otherwise condition of your county finances largely depends on your county commissioners. If you have good reason to believe that someone else can and will serve you better than I will, it is your duty to elect him, but if you trust me again I hope you will never have cause to regret it.

N. A. Fort.

NARROW SPACE FOR A NATION

No Wonder Japan is Anxious to Expand

The 487 islands which constitute the Japanese empire have an area of a little over 100,000,000 acres, of which only about one-fifth is under cultivation, and according to the census of 1892 there are 42,500,754 people distributed over this by no means extensive territory. This indicates a population of about 175 persons to the square mile, and it means that every two and a half acres of arable land must feed four mouths. If it were not for the fact that a large number of the natives derive their subsistence chiefly from the sea the country would be in a chronic state of semi-starvation, and as it is, the domestic supply of food needs to be eked out by importations from abroad.

SUICIDE PREVENTED

The startling announcement that a preventive of suicide has been discovered will interest many. A run down system, or despondency, invariably precedes suicide, and something has been found that will prevent that condition which makes suicide likely. At the first thought of self destruction take Electric Bitters. It being a great tonic and nerve will strengthen the nerves and build up the system. It's also a great Stomach, Liver and Kidney regulator. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by the Anti-Monopoly Drugstore.

THE FORESIGHT OF GEORGE

Washington was asked why he had cut down the cherry tree. "Because," he replied, "Andrew Jackson is going to monopolize the hickory." Thus, with precocious foresight, did he lay the foundation of his career. Judge.

WARREN MEDAL CONTEST

lodgment in the heart of man. All great men had gentle mothers. Her education is the enlightenment of the world, leading her sons and daughters along the pleasant paths and phases of education in the arts and sciences. Woman, in all the great epochs of history, kept the banner of liberty aloft. If she caused the fall of man she is also to be credited with his redemption. Miss Poyser again favored the audience with a delightful piano solo, and Harry Shaw.

Told us in a masterful manner of "The Chances of the Twentieth Century Boy." Consider the boy of 200 years ago and the conditions that surrounded him. Now all is changed. This is now an age of chances and achievements. Now he thinks, acts, is one of a great and free people, and works out his own destiny. This broad country is dotted with thousands of free schools, and more than two colleges and universities, where opportunity awaits the application of the youth of the land. Why? They provide you an education, and you all admit the advantages of it. These homes of study and thought control the destinies of earth, and at little expense. Think of what the intercommunication and the travel of the world does for mankind; so cheap and yet so useful. All travel has its advantages. It is only by seeing and comparing that we can rightly estimate one's own country and its greatness. Think of the good literature now to be had at everyone's door for almost the asking. All these teach and lead on to noble thought and grander performances for the betterment of humanity. The progress of the world is recognized in good reading. This has been cheapened 200 per cent. since 1800. No pleasure so cheap and none so lasting as good books. The safety and liberty of the people has its home in the freedom of the press. Contrast today with a century ago the dissemination of the news of the world. In 24 hours you have it. The useful careers of others are constantly before you for inspiration and imitation. Think of the trades and professions that are open to the boy of today. What glorious opportunities for distinction, wealth, honor and usefulness. See what science has done for development and utility. The motto of all should be perfection, and in that glorious vision, what opportunities. Let us not be ungrateful of our chances in life.

ARTICLE 3

The amount of capital stock authorized is sixty thousand dollars ($60,000) divided into six hundred shares ($100 each, fifty thousand dollars of which shall be payable in property, at a just valuation to be fixed by the directors at a meeting to be called for such purpose, and ten thousand dollars of such capital stock shall be payable in cash.

ARTICLE 4

The term for which this corporation shall exist is ninety-nine (99) years.

ARTICLE 5

The business of this corporation shall be conducted by a president, a vice president, a secretary and treasurer, and a board of directors, consisting of not less than seven (7) persons, to be elected at the annual meeting of the stockholders, to be held on the second Tuesday in May, 1904, and annually thereafter, from which board of directors the foregoing officers shall be elected; provided, that one person may hold the offices of secretary and treasurer. The following named officers are to conduct the business of this corporation until those elected at the first annual election in 1904 shall be qualified, viz: H. A. Ford, president; J. B. Mr. Shaw spoke with perfect deliberation and self-possession; has a good voice and is impressive in his delivery; has a clear mind and good judgment. His effort was received with great favor.

Mr. Counts has it in him. It is only a question of time and if his life is spared great things are expected of him. He has a philosophic cast of mind and reaches conclusions by just premises. He has a shifting habit on the stage that training can easily correct.

Miss Gattis had a pleasing presence, a commanding bearing and an earnest delivery. Her memory proved treacherous on three occasions, but her self-possession never deserted her.

The efforts of the contestants were creditable in a marked degree and reflect great credit on Professor Workman, the principal of the school.

The female quartet, composed of Mesdames Gonn, Lapham, McKean and Blake, sang in fine voice and effect "Fond Recollections."

Then the judges, W. K. Zawadzki, W. S. Bullock and C. W. Lindsay retired to consider their verdict.

In their absence Rector Little remarked the girls and boys had held the stage on the 20th century platform, but our old friend, George Washington, had been almost overlooked, but as these interesting exercises were in part commemorative of his importance, it was proposed that the audience sing "America" which was given with a will.

At the suggestion of Chairman Little a vote of thanks was tendered all who had contributed towards the pleasure and profit of the evening.

Hon. George G. Matthews was called for and made a few complimentary remarks. Artist Gottlieb was called on for a recitation, but declined because his wife forbade him. (Laughter.)

The judges then returned, and Dr. Lindsay, speaking, said that after much thought on the exercises of all the speakers, they had unanimously decided that Miss Gattis had won the medal. This was received with great applause. In a few well chosen words Dr. Lindsay presented the victor with the beautiful trophy.

Rector Little pronounced the benediction when the prize winner held a small sized levee on the stage to receive hearty congratulations.

It was a memorable evening, beautifully spent, showing how dear to our hearts are our children and their progress in studies, real live high school.

The contest was given by the Ocala High School, under the supervision of Mr. Workman, principal of the Ocala High School, and the Ocala High School.

FISHING IN FORMOSA.

Their Rods Superb, but Their Hooks Are Without Harbs.

Three of us, two Americans and one Japanese, started out in Junkies from Taipei, the modern capital of Formosa, or Taiwan, to go to the house of a wealthy gentleman about eight miles up the river which runs through the valley of Taipei. The way led through a beautiful and fertile country, the valley covered with the second crop of rice and the hills with the famous Formosa tea shrubs. After luncheon and after photographing some head hunting savages we found there we proposed to fish for salmon trout at an altitude less than 250 feet above sea level and in latitude about 24 degrees 40 minutes north, practically in the tropics. The temperature of the stream was about 70 degrees or higher, and the water was well aerated. This stream, from 90 to 100 yards wide, is clear and full of rapids and riffles.

We used Japanese tackle—horsehair line and horsehair leader, the latter consisting of one strand only: a bamboo rod and a most delicate palmer tied on a small barbed hook. The rod is decidedly good and, weight for weight, is stronger and a better caster than our jointed rod. It rarely weighs over four ounces (mine weighed about two), but the line is practically worthless for casting as we understand the term. The fly is perfect, but the hook lacks strength, and the fish when hooked may easily detach himself in a current or an eddy or by fouling the line. We all know how it is done from our experience with pin hook and thread in the brooks at home.

The Japanese, however, have another method of fishing which may be as new to some of our readers as it was to me. It is quite successful. They catch one fish in any way they can and then fasten the line securely through its upper jaw, passing it through the roof of the mouth and out at the top of the upper jaw well in front of the eyes and then attach through the body of the fish not far in front of the tail a horsehair to which is tied a three pronged barbed hook, which trails in line with the fish and a few inches behind, while it is slowly worked up the stream by the fisherman. The theory is that other fishes, seeing the captive moving along as though feeding or perhaps spawning, will pursue it and become impaled on the hooks. In point of fact that does happen, as I saw a Chinaman take two fine trout in this manner.

Our success with the flies was poor. We got thirteen or fourteen fingerlings, but we saw the fish we wished to catch fifty caught in fairly good numbers by the Chinese fishing with decoys.—Forest and Stream.

Woman's Aversion to Indexes.

"Talk about the inclination to study the envelope to discover the sender instead of opening the letter being a trait of womanhood," said a Brooklyn man the other day, "it isn't in it with a woman's aversion to indexes. Give a woman a book of poems like those of Burns, for instance, and she'll turn the pages for twenty minutes or more to find the piece she is really after rather than look in the index. Suggest the index to her and she'll say, 'Oh, I'll find it in a second,' and away she'll go, turning the pages again."

"The other night by actual timing it took my wife twenty-two minutes to find 'Mary in Heaven' in a copy of Burns, for not only did she lose actual time turning the pages, but if she'd come to anything she liked, such as 'Holy Willie's Prayer' and 'Polly Stewart,' she'd dally over them awhile. Rarely do men do that. The first thing they go for is the index."—New York Press.

An Actor's Blunder.

A theatrical manager tells of an amusing and ludicrous mistake made by a young actor in a play. The young actor had up to this time employed his talents in enacting such parts as called for no speech on his part. But in this play he was intrusted with the following line, the only words to be spoken by him during the entire play:

"The king is dead! Long live the king!"

The critical time arriving, it was observed by other players that the young man who was to avow the new monarch in the words just quoted was suffering from a dreadful attack of stage fright. His eye came, but no words could be spoken, so frightened was he.

Finally, however, he pulled himself together and in desperation shouted at the top of his voice:

"Long live the king, he's dead!"

Legal Courtesy.

An instance of legal courtesy occurred in a courtroom not very long ago. A lawyer with a Mac preface to his name and a brother lawyer engaged in a heated discussion. The latter maintained his position, claiming he could find his authority and turning over to the pages of the statute book, when, quick as a flash, Mac said: "You will find what you want on page —, section —."

Mac's opponent looked up the reference, and found the law governing Mac's case. A ripple of laughter spread over the court.

A More Important Matter.

"Why," said the punctilious person, "I got a letter from the person you have been praising, and there was actually a capital in the wrong place." "May be so," answered Mr. Cumrox. "But he never gets his capital in the wrong place in the market. And that's more important."—Washington Star.
